• 1. The first step in the process of creating a new product is to identify a market need. This involves conducting market research to determine what consumers want and what problems they are trying to solve. Once a need is identified, the next step is to develop a concept that addresses that need. This is often done through brainstorming and sketching ideas. The third step is to create a prototype, which is a physical model of the product that can be used to test and refine the design. This is followed by a series of iterations, where the design is improved based on feedback from users and testing. Finally, the product is ready for production and distribution.
